

Catella fund named Hedge Fund of the Year

Catella Hedgefond has been named Hedge Fund of the Year by Privata Affärer magazine, with the motivation "High returns with low risk – a winning concept".

"My colleagues and I, who manage Catella Hedgefond, are pleased that our consistent management has delivered excellent returns with low risk over a prolonged period. We are enormously gratified that Privata Affärer has recognised this," says Ulf Strömsten, lead manager for Catella Hedgefond.

Fund of the Year is the most important independent fund award in Sweden. The jury made an assessment based on factors including risk and return during 2014 and three years historically. Funds may not have changed managers during the period and must be available on at least one major fund marketplace.

"It was a great year for us in 2014, with strong management performance in most of our funds, and with substantial interest from our clients in investing in our funds. We have a very clear goal - to deliver the best possible risk-adjusted returns for unit holders," says Erik Kjellgren, head of the Swedish fund operations.
